DRIVEN Investment wins Marouane Ben Belfort as Technical Project Manager

Berlin, 09. September 2021: DRIVEN Investment continues to drive its growth with Marouane Ben Belfort (31) as Technical Project Manager. The architect, who studied at the Technical University of Munich, has been responsible for the planning, implementation and management of the company's project developments since the beginning of September. With this personnel appointment, Driven is further expanding its development capacities. The company only strengthened itself in March 2021 with Technical Director Katja Bartel.

Belfort most recently worked for the architectural firm Max Dudler in Berlin and Munich since the beginning of 2019. Prior to that, he worked at other architecture firms, where he was involved in a number of new buildings.

"With Marouane Ben Belfort, we are pleased to have gained another top-class technical project manager who has already proven many times that he can successfully bring complex construction projects to completion on time and reliably," says Togrul Gonden, co-managing director of DRIVEN Investment.

"Driven's projects stand out for their individual challenges, as they include everything from new construction and existing building extensions to heritage renovations. Actively shaping and developing land and buildings and creating real estate with impetus and added value for the neighbourhood particularly appeals to me," says Marouane Ben Belfort.
